Town of North Hampton

Conservation Audit and Stewardship Plan

Context

The Town of North Hampton, NH contains significant portions of two river drainages - the Little River which flows directly into the Atlantic Ocean, and the Winnicut River which flows northward into the Great Bay estuary. Situated as it is in the watersheds of these two rivers, land use in the Town has a significant effect on the quality of the water bodies into which these rivers flow. Preservation of open space, especially in areas in the vicinity of these rivers and their associated wetlands has been identified as a priority by the Town of North Hampton, and by regional studies including the 2006 State of the Estuaries Report by the NH Estuaries Project among others. Acknowledging their strategic location regarding these resources, the Town Conservation Commission has made strides over the past three decades to preserve open space by a variety of means.

Introduction and Goals

During 2002 and 2003 the North Hampton Conservation Commission conducted a study of the conservation lands in Town, with special attention to the properties on which the Town has legal conservation responsibilities. The study identified several needs in the area of stewardship of conservation lands, record keeping protocols, mapping, baseline documentation, monitoring, and enhanced protection of certain Town-owned lands.

In 2005 the Town of North Hampton, NH was awarded a grant by the New Hampshire Estuaries Project. The Eligible Activity applied for, under the category of Land Conservation and Natural Resource Protection was “Development of monitoring plans for town-held easements on conservation lands”. Contractor Christopher Kane was selected to carry out a project to help improve the Town’s ability to steward their conservation lands, and inform their efforts to carry out proactive protection of new parcels.

The 2002-03 project carried out by the North Hampton Conservation Commission identified a comprehensive database of the conservation lands in Town as a critical need. In addition to the data on conservation parcels, the Town wanted to have the conservation lands in Town mapped, for outreach and planning purposes. Part of the concern with the Conservation Commission was that they did not have a complete knowledge of what was protected in town, by who, by what means, and also how robust this protection was. There was also a concern that file information on the various conservation parcels was not consistent or complete. In addition, the Conservation Commission was concerned about the level of protection actually in place for certain Town-Owned lands that had been considered “Conservation”, and how they would be able to meet their stewardship obligations.

Project Scope and Methods

The particular project design that emerged after discussions with representatives of the Town called for a Conservation Audit and Stewardship Plan. In the Audit portion, all references to any lands in Town that had appeared on any list as potentially held for conservation purposes were researched. Other sources of data regarding conservation lands were also investigated, including the GIS mapping Conservation Lands data layer administered by Complex Systems at the University of New Hampshire. All available records in the Town Offices were searched, including tax card files, Conservation Commission property files, old plans, and lists of Town lands and Conservation lands. A thorough search of the records at the Rockingham County Registry of Deeds provided much of the critical information and documents that the Audit relied on.

Certain criteria were established by the Conservation Commission as to which lands would be included in the study. Consequently, parcels in the following categories were excluded from the final Conservation Database:

- Town-owned lands that have established uses other than conservation
- Town-owned lands that were acquired for purposes other than conservation
- Lands owned by water districts for well-head protection
- Lands owned by school districts
- Lands owned by recreational organizations

As the information on properties was gathered, they were entered into a database by Tax Map, Lot and Sub-lot number. Twenty fields of important data were recorded for each parcel. These fields include acreage, type of protection, book and page of recorded documents and plans, summary of the conservation restrictions, and recommendations for stewardship. Individual Property Profiles were produced for each tax parcel which include all the database information and recommendations. Those parcels that were ultimately verified as lands afforded protection as conservation lands were also mapped in a new project using the GIS software ESRI ArcView 3.x.

Informed by the Conservation Audit, a Stewardship Plan was produced to help guide the Conservation Commission in its continuing efforts to carryout land conservation and stewardship of their Town-owned and easement lands. Recommendations for stewardship both on specific properties and in general are included.

Results of Conservation Audit

The Conservation Audit identified and verified 120 tax lots with some form of conservation protection in the Town according to the established criteria. Combined, these parcels total 1090.71 acres of land that is protected to some degree in North Hampton. The parcels each fall into one of the land protection categories below:

- Conservation Easements held by the Town on private lands
- Lands held in fee by the Town that have Conservation Restrictions in the deed
- Properties held in fee by the Town that are unrestricted but that have been informally or traditionally considered as Conservation lands
- Lands held in fee by Conservation organizations that do not have Conservation Restrictions in the deed
- Conservation Easements held by other entities on private lands
- Lands held in fee by another entity that have Conservation Restrictions in the deed
- Lands co-owned by neighbor groups that have Restrictive Covenants in the deeds
- Lands that are labeled for Conservation purposes on a signed, Town-approved and recorded plan

The Database of Conservation Lands in Appendix B more specifically indicates the range and diversity of protection types.

Database of Conservation Lands

The accompanying Database in Appendix A gives a comprehensive and property-specific picture of the status of conservation in the Town of North Hampton. Twenty fields of parcel-specific data were collected for each of some 150 parcels, 120 of which were ultimately selected for inclusion according to the criteria above. The database is most useful in its original digital form, which enables various sorts to view the data.

Property Profiles

Individual profiles of 85 parcels/project units were produced, and they appear in Appendix C. The intention with the Profiles was that the salient details related to the conservation of each parcel would be available at a glance. These Profile sheets can be filed in the Conservation Commission property files, as well as with the tax card files at the Town offices. It is highly recommended that the North Hampton Conservation Commission read all Property Profiles in order to understand the particular idiosyncrasies of each property, and to refer to the original documents for more details, as there are too many to highlight here.

Map of Conservations Lands in North Hampton

The accompanying map in Appendix B was created to display all properties listed in the present Conservation Database. Conservation property boundaries were adjusted in some instances from other sources to adhere to the Town tax parcel lines. The sources for the new property lines were a combination of plans and deed property descriptions, depending on what was available. Thus the accuracy is not survey-quality, but is intended to be of utility primarily for conservation planning by the Town. In many instances the conservation parcels newly mapped were not in the GRANIT ConsLand database as of this writing.

Recommendations and Stewardship Plan

Land that is protected will only stay protected if stewardship is performed regularly. Although stewardship of Conservation Easements is required by State statute, stewardship of fee-simple lands is also important, especially where Town funds were used in its acquisition, to uphold the purposes for which it was acquired, and to maintain public trust in the ability of the Town to steward its public lands.

Stewardship as a practice has several benefits. It is first and foremost necessary to ensure the compliance of conservation easement landowners with the easement terms. Thus annual visits will put the owner on notice that the Town is keeping an eye on the property, and will lessen the chance that a prohibited activity takes place. If performed well, stewardship also helps develop a positive relationship between the landowner and the Town. By viewing the relationship as a partnership for the continued protection of important resources on the property, trust and cooperation are fostered, and the landowner is much more likely to approach the monitoring volunteer or the Town with a question about an activity before they go ahead.

Despite many strides in recent years, the Town still has work to do to meet its obligations regarding stewardship of its easement, fee and deed-restricted properties. Nationally recognized stewardship standards call for on-site monitoring of every easement property on an annual basis. Stewardship of deed-restricted properties should adhere to this standard as well. Fee conservation lands, while not required by law to be monitored annually, should be regularly monitored to establish a record of good intention and catch potential issues early.

Each protected property should be visited in the field, and the owner interviewed on an annual basis. If issues or questions arise in the intervening months, additional visits, meetings or phone discussions will be necessary. It would be advisable for a designated volunteer or contract monitor to visit their properties with another person, both to have another perspective and set of eyes, but also to familiarize someone else with the property, should a replacement monitor be needed in the future. In instances where all conservation properties cannot be monitored that year, it is advisable to contact all owners of the properties to remind/inform them of the restrictions on their land, and to answer questions.

As adequate monitoring of Town-held conservation lands and easements can be difficult to achieve, it is useful to set priorities based on the relative security or risk associated with a conservation parcel. As with most organizations which rely on volunteers, time for stewardship by the Town will be limited, and setting priorities will help maximize effort. Considering the broad range of types of conservation lands in North Hampton, the following list indicates categories by decreasing level of risk. Thus properties in categories higher on the list are a higher priority for monitoring and should be dealt with sooner rather than later.

Monitoring Priority Categories of Town-held Conservation Interests:

- Oldest Town-held Conservation Easements (highest priority)
- Town-held Conservation Easements with new owners
- Town-held Conservation Easements adjacent to commercial zones
- Town-held Conservation Easements that are portions of residential lots
- Town-held Conservation Easements with multiple owners
- Relatively old Town-held Deed-Restricted properties
- Relatively new Town-held Deed-Restricted properties
- Relatively new Town-held Conservation Easements (lowest priority)

Record keeping is especially important to document the stewardship actions of the Town for the benefit of the Conservation Commission, and to facilitate future monitoring. It will also be critically important in an evidentiary capacity, should a litigation action be necessary. Thus all reports, photographs, maps, and written correspondence, as well as written records of e-mails, meetings and phone conversations in any way related to a property or issue should include the names of the involved parties including the Town representative, and be filed in the permanent easement file.

Consolidation of Protection of Select Town-Held Conservation Parcels

File and registry of deed research revealed that for four conservation easements acquired by the Town the original Conservation Easement Deeds were never recorded. These original documents are currently in the Town tax files. It is a high priority for the Town to have these documents recorded at the Rockingham County Registry of Deeds. The tax parcels are as follows:

5-19	Moore
5-19-1	Moore
5-20	Moore
6-35	Fogg
8-166	Dalton
19-14-1	Kilburn

These original documents need to be physically delivered for recording to the Rockingham County Registry of Deeds in Brentwood, NH which is housed in the same building as the Rockingham County Courthouse. A modest recording fee will need to be paid to the Registry at the time of recording. The original document will be returned to the Town within a week or so by mail. Copies of the thus recorded deeds should be filed with other property materials, and the original deeds should be stored in a secure location.

Proactive Protection of Town-owned Properties

The Conservation Audit identified a number of properties that are owned by the Town and appear to have conservation value, but that are not legally protected for conservation in any real way. Despite public perception and historic understanding, the dispensation of these properties is subject to the decisions of Town officials in their sole discretion, unless a vote of the Town supersedes this. As it stands, these properties could potentially be used at some future time by the Town for purposes other than conservation.

It is recommended that the Town pursue formal conservation protection of the following properties, whether by means of conveying conservation easements to a qualified entity such as a land trust, or by other means such as corrective deeds with conservation restrictions. The fee interest in the properties would thus remain in Town hands, and traditional uses and activities under the auspices of the Town would continue, but restrictions held and enforced by a second party would prevent uses inconsistent with conservation on these parcels. Also, the holder of these easements on Town land would assume all stewardship responsibilities including baseline documentation and monitoring. In several instances groups of these parcels are contiguous, and would make significant land protection projects if combined. The Town should consult with the Town Attorney to determine the best approach regarding this and other matters involving conveyance of Town interest in conservation land. The tax parcels not formally protected are as follows:

6-53-3	Kokernak
9-1-11	M & J Realty
9-55	Fitzgerald
13-79	Luck
14-167	Drop Anchor
14-169	Chen
15-9	Drop Anchor
15-10	Donais
15-11	Drop Anchor
22-22-21	Woods

Parcels with Erroneous or Inadequate Language in Deeds

Several parcels were conserved with recorded deeds, but errors in the language leave questions as to the adequacy of the restrictions. The following parcels are priorities for research to determine the intent of the Grantor, and to potentially correct errors by means of corrective deeds or other devices. The list of tax parcels with issues is as follows:

8-121-1	D'Urso	Deed states that restrictions apply to Lot 8-121 without mention of the 3 actual lots that comprise the Property.
8-164	D'Urso	Deed states that restrictions apply to Lot 8-121 without mention of the 3 actual lots that comprise the Property.
8-165	D'Urso	Deed states that restrictions apply to Lot 8-121 without mention of the 3 actual lots that comprise the Property.
14-34-1	Ebert	Lot referenced in deed is 14-34-1 which is not NW of Atlantic Ave. as deed description states.
19-21	Wollmar	CE deed identifies property as Lot 21-4, not 19-21

Baseline Documentation

For properties protected with Conservation Easements in which a federal tax deduction was received, the IRS absolutely requires that a Baseline Documentation Report be completed that documents the condition of the property at the time of the donation to substantiate the conservation value. If this was not completed at the time of the donation, it is highly advisable that it be completed as soon as possible thereafter.

At this writing no baseline documentation reports have been located for any of the Town's easement and deed-restricted properties. Numerous donors/grantees of Town-restricted properties have most likely received charitable deductions from the IRS, and that baseline documentation reports are a requirement by the IRS. Significant Town funds have also been expended in the protection of numerous parcels. Therefore, completion of baseline documentation reports for these parcels should be a major priority for the Town.

As a matter of good practice, Baseline Documentation Reports should be produced for all conservation easement properties regardless of IRS deduction. Such reports have value for all future stewardship activities, and are very useful in the instance that a legal defense of the easement is required. This along with proof of regular monitoring show that the Grantee is serious about upholding the restrictions, and improve their position in court.

Record Keeping

Record keeping is of prime importance for the administration of conservation properties. As the results of the present project indicate the Town's record keeping approach needs improvement. Documents related to the various conservation parcels are scattered among several locations, some of which have yet to be located. The documentation is not consistent between parcels, and in many cases is inadequate for efficient stewardship. The recent North Hampton Forever files are in relatively better shape, however.

The database provided in this report can form the foundation for the organization of conservation files. Ideally each conserved property that the Town is responsible for should have its own permanent file folder. In this folder should be kept all the important documents and materials pertaining both to the establishment and documentation of the original conservation project, including copies of any legal and financial documents, baseline documentation, maps, photos, correspondence, Town votes and appraisals, but should also include copies of all subsequent correspondence and stewardship reports. Secure storage that is readily accessible to town officials is also important. In the case of North Hampton, it is also recommended that as parcels are so often referred to in their tax card files, that a copy of all pertinent conservation deeds should be filed with the tax cards for each parcel, as well as the particular Property Profile produced in this report.

Because the Town officials, staff and citizens refer so often to the Tax Maps, it is also recommended that the conservation parcels showing the general outline of the protected areas should also appear as such on the next edition of the Tax Maps. Ideally the method of protection (eg. Conservation Easement) would also appear on the maps, as well as the name of the Grantee.

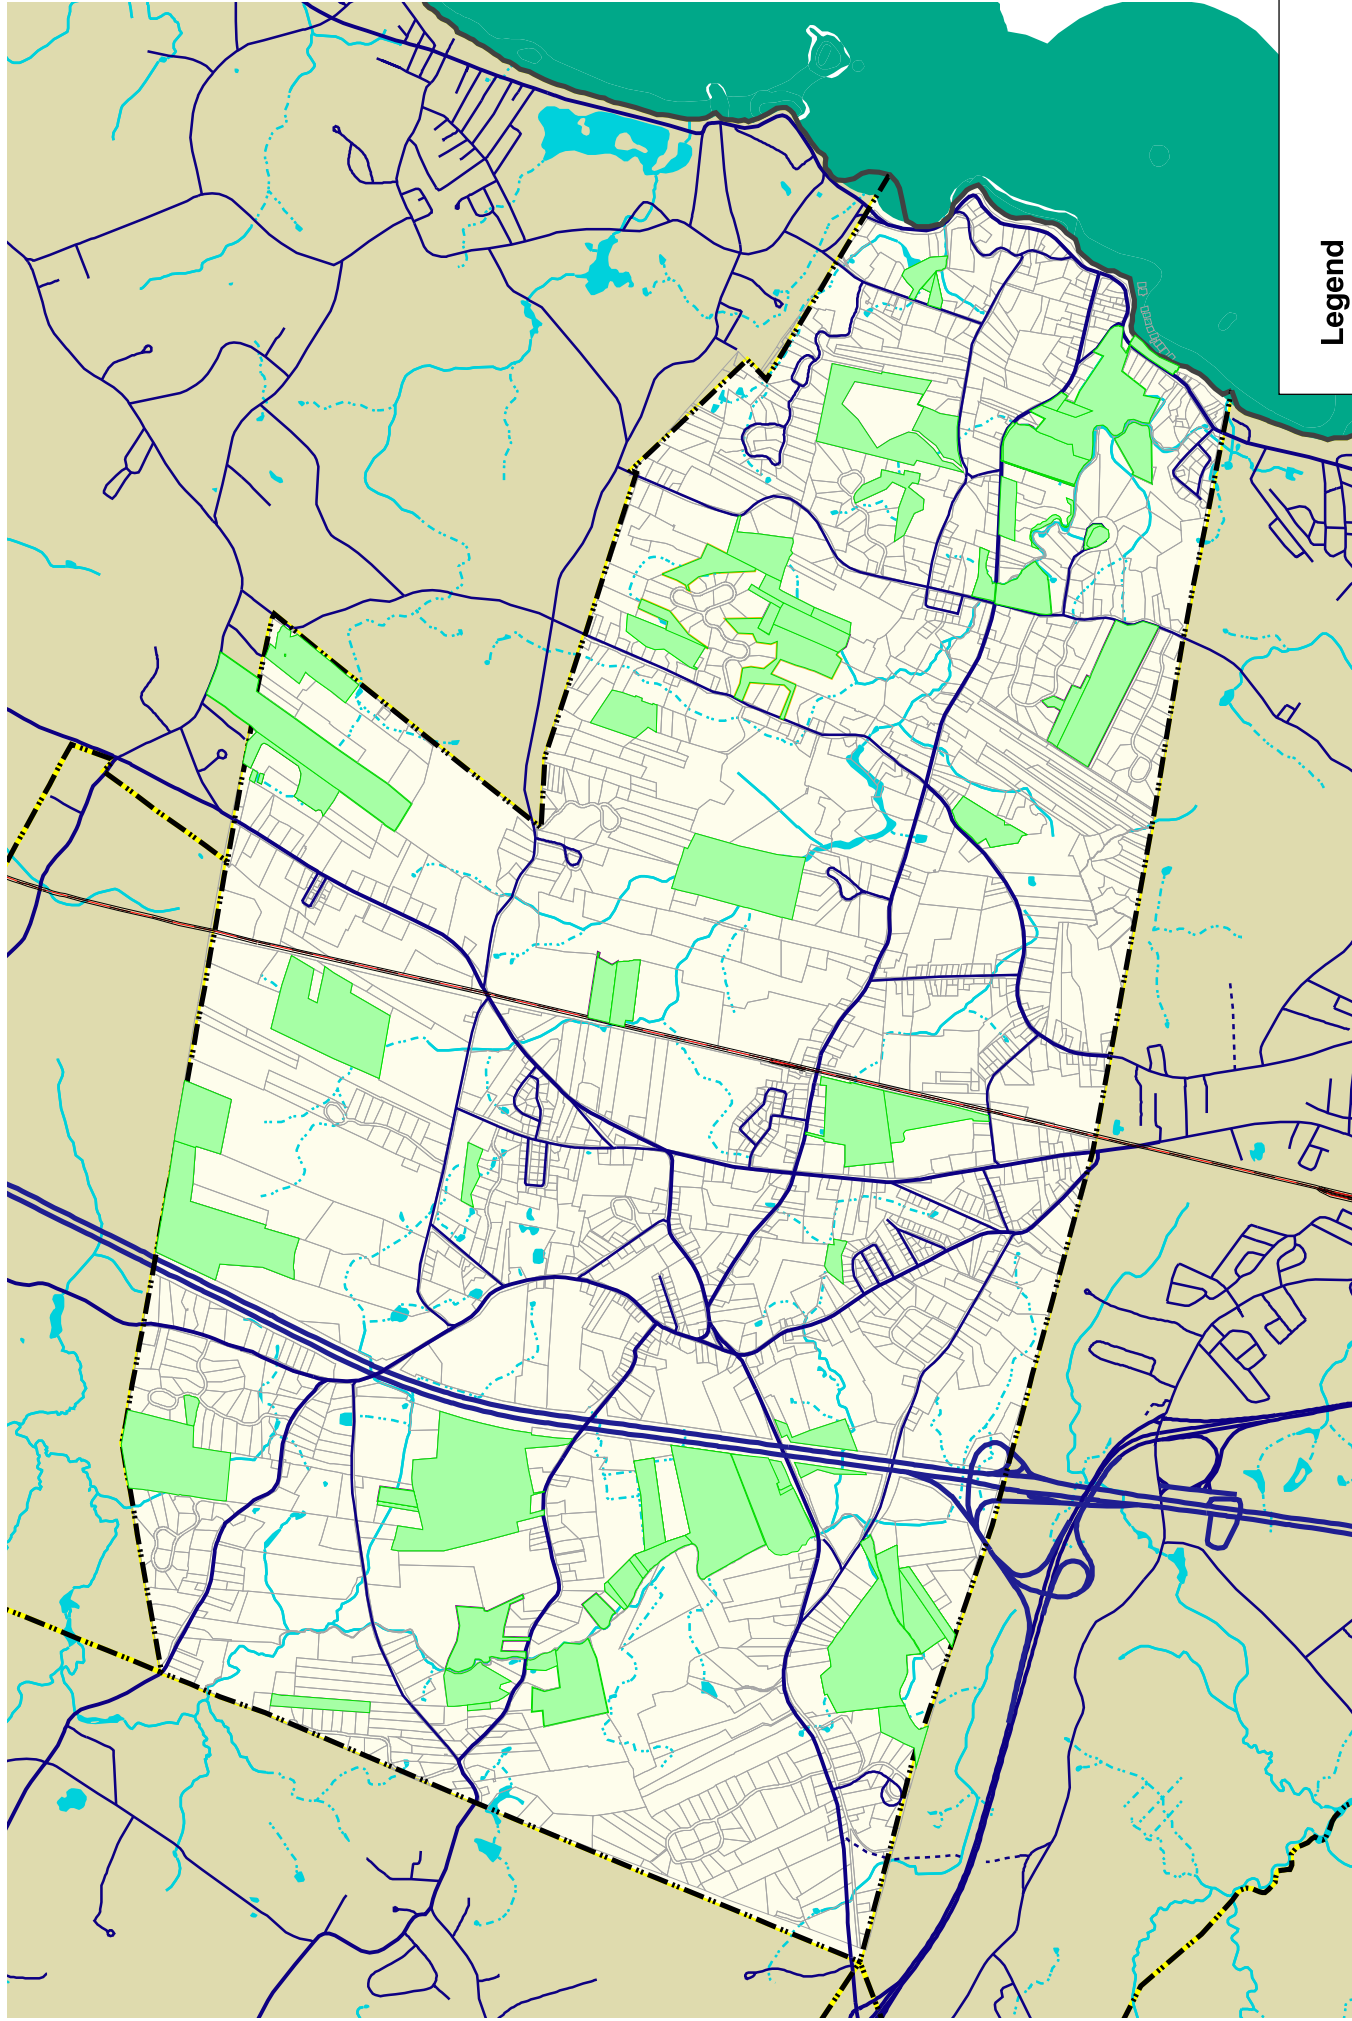

Easement Enforcement / Monitoring Funds

Some years ago Land Trusts started establishing funds dedicated to the stewardship of their conservation properties. As more and more lands are conserved, the pressure on the Grantee to keep up monitoring responsibilities will increase. As these properties change hands, the new owners cannot be assumed to be as dedicated to the conservation of their land as their predecessors. As time goes by, the likelihood that an easement challenge will necessitate expenditures for legal expenses will increase.

All these considerations point to the prudence of the establishment by the Town of North Hampton of one fund to support general stewardship expenses, and another one strictly for legal defense purposes. It will be easier and more expedient to access these dedicated funds should the need arise, than to find funds on short notice from the Towns general accounts. Other Towns in New Hampshire have already learned this the hard way, as they have been in court to defend their own easements.

Restrictions Summary: Warranty Deed with Restrictions - No structures; No fences for purposes other than for agriculture - No fence to exceed 3 ft.; Subject area for agricultural purposes only. See original deed for complete easement terms.

Enforcement Rights: Stephen & Robin Bancewicz

Location: 117 Walnut Ave., back portion

Comments: Deed excludes front area from restrictions, remaining area of 2.03 ac. lot in conservation is approximately 1 ac. (See 19-34?)

Ownership: Private

Book & Page: 2328-0223

Plan: No Plan referenced in deed

GRANIT Number: New Mapping

Document Name: Deed

Level of Protection: Low

Recommendations: A few use restrictions in fee deed to Redden, presumably enforceable by Grantor, and then by no-one. Area is small - possibly approach owner to donate easement to Town.
